WWTF
International Summer School

Commoning the City

The Summer School departs from today's crisis of public space and explores the concept of the commons as an element that complements the state and the market. Thus it aims at reframing and invigorating the debate on public space based on an aggressive repudiation of neoliberal politics as much as a radical re-imagination of alternative cities beyond capitalism.

The Summer School will take place from the 22nd – 29th of June 2014. Each day is dedicated to the study of one practice: collective learning and unlearning, communal living, collective listening, collective planning and imagining, cruising and acting together, collaborative trading and common debate. Together we want to explore their potential with regard to commoning and the commons.

The Summer School is organized by Spaces of Commoning – an interdisciplinary research collective based at the Academy of Fine Arts Vienna and supported by the WWTF (Vienna Science and Technology Fund).

All events take place in the setting of a temporary use project at Marxergasse 24, 1030 Vienna.
